THE CAMPAIGN WATCH.

We have been suppliers of watches for use in time of War, for the past half century nearly, and it is back to The Afghan War that we can trace our name as being the original suppliers of The Campaign Pocket Watch. Nickel Rs. 32, Silver Rs. 37-8, Gold Rs. 160.

THE "IDEAL" WATCH.

May be termed an open watch. It looks neat, light and attractive; sits close on the wrist and is the watch par excellence of its kind on the point of quality.

Nickel Rs. 32, Silver Rs. 37-8, Gold Rs. 160.

THE IMPERMEABLE WATCH.

Gives you protection from rain, dust, perspiration because it has a screw-out movement. Obviates risk of every kind.

STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The following information is published in order that vessels in the Bombay Harbour may by comparison with a standard instruments, ascertain the errors of their barometers:—

The reading of the Standard Barometer at the Colaba observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 80 deg. F. and to the level of the tide, at 8-45 a.m. Standard Time on the 4th September 1914 was 29·94 inches 'For temperature corrections applicable to mercurial barometers of ships the reading of the ship's barometer has to be increased or decreased by 0.13 inch. for every 5 degrees according as the temperature of the attached thermometer is respectively below or above 80 deg. F. In case of the aneroid no temperature or correction is needed. But for comparison at 80 F. all aneroid reading should be increased by 138 inch. For correcting the ship's barometer either mercurial of aneriod for the height of the barometer cistern above the tide level in the steam at 8-45 a.m., Standard Time, the ship's barometer reading should be increased by 0.10 inch. for every 10 feet of the height to make it comparable with the observatory barometer reading given above.

MANCHESTER COTTON PIECE-GOODS AND YARN MARKET REPORT.

(From our Correspondent.)

Bombay, Sept. 4.

The market continues ruling very quiet; absence of any kind of inquiry, wholesale or retail, is the only main factor to report. But for the unreasonable panic of up-country buyers, circumstances would have permitted some decent clearances on this side in spite of the unfortunate war. We are still hopeful that confidence would soon be restored, particularly when everything possible is being done by a benign government to protect and facilitate trade. It is high time, when the Bombay dealers, always loyal, should exercise influence and combination to dispel the most unreasonable fears, by refusing to give credence to reports and imaginations from sources wholly incapable of any judgment. It is not only for their interest, but for the interest of trade in general, that perfect confidence and sincere cooperation be aimed at to once again give a desirable life to trade.

In greys the demand has materially fallen off, and standard styles such as Pepperell Drills, &c., for which prices had enhanced show a weakening tendency. Bleached clothes are equally poor, and the holders perhaps are in the worst position. Overtrade and slack demand had very much effected buyers, the present crisis certainly tends in no way to improve the position. For Prints, dyed goods and fancies, there is very little encouragement to report. Retail inquiry in these lines largely help, but the utter wants of demand hardly allow the largest holders at times to dispose off a few pieces a day.

Yarns.—Demand continues poor, but prices appear to be well maintained. Even the local mills help little at present to consume double cross reels from the local market.

* Subject to revision.

The feature of the past week has been the publication of the Agricultural Bureau Report, and the condition of 78-0 per cent. is exceptionally good. In the big crop year the August condition was 73-2 per cent., but the earlier months this year compared very unfavourably with those of 1911. A large American Crop, quite adequate for the world's requirements, is however assured. But the Continent of Europe is at war, and the outlook for cotton is at present gloomy. The cotton markets of the world practically closed and business is at a standstill. War dominates commerce. Under such conditions it is idle to speculate on the future of the market.

During the early part of the past week there was rather more business doing in the local market for forward delivery, Japan export houses having settled several lines of their previous purchases of Bengals, Khamgaon Akola and Broach. The market fluctuated a good deal, but on the whole the tendency was downwards and good Broach touched Rs. 201. On Wednesday afternoon the Directors of the Bombay Cotton Trade Association published rasolution, subject to confirmation at a General meeting of the share-holders of the Association to be held on the 10th inst., fixing rates until further notice as a minium basis for all forward contracts in Indian Cotton. The full wording of the resolution was given in our issue of the 3rd inst. The minimum rates fixed for the chief descriptions were Rs. 205 for good Broach March Rs. 135 for fully good Bengal January, and Rs. 170 for fine Khamgaon Akola January. Fixed prices for other descriptions will be found below. The market has since fluctuated and yesterday good Broach touched Rs. 212½, but closed Rs. 4 lower. To-day the nominal rate is Rs. 208, other prices in proportion. Owing to the eclipse the market was closed this afternoon.

The enquiry for ready cotton has been small and the daily turnover is only a few hundred bales. Sales are made on the basis of classification, with mutual allowance on survey. The system is working quietly and has checked the downward movement in prices, causing a healthier feeling in the market.

The total receipts into Bombay for the season (1st Sept 1913 to 31st August 1914) were 3,739,409 bales against 2,779,099 bales for the previous season. This constitutes a record and will be hard to beat. The total shipments for the same period were 2,590,178 bales against 1,587,402 bales for the previous year. The past season has been in every way one of the most remarkable on record.

Crop reports continue satisfactory. The break has been beneficial and the plants are healthy, and in some places are in flower and showing bolls, A few good showers this month would give excellent results. Here and there rain is required shortly.

LOCAL YARNS.

The market has been quiet during the interval with very little business doing, and that only of a retail character. Rates are practically unquotable. Owing to the fall in silver China exchange is easier. The low prices ruling for Indian cotton are in favour of mills.

WHEAT AND SEEDS.

These markets have been more or less closed during the week and quotations are nominal. Parties are endeavouring to come to some arrangement regarding the September settlements. There has been a fair enquiry for ready wheat, Karachi Baugla and other descriptions, by local mills. Some parcels of ready Linseed have changed hands at Rs. 7-8-0. The general tone of the markets for seeds is quiet. The markets are closed to-day.

THE LATE MR BAPUJI DINANATHJI.

The death of Mr. Bapuji Dinanathji, took place on Thursday last, after a couple of days' illness, at the age of 72. He was one of the oldest members of the Pathare Prabhu community. For a number of years he was an interpreter, and subsequently the Assistant Registrar of the Bombay Court of Small Causes, while for almost the same length of time he was a teacher in the School of Arts when that institution was under the superintendence of the late Mr. Ferry. After retirement, both from the Court and the school, he lived as a professional expert in handwriting and as an honorary tutor in drawing, occasionally giving lessons to the girls of the Students' Literary and Scientific Society and opening special drawing classes for girls in the Pathare Prabhu Health Camp, during the May vacation. He was a specialist in the art of making the images of Ganpati, gilt with gold leaf. He was also an expert engraver of pictures on metal. To the end of his life the late Mr. Bapuji remained a devotee of literature and fine arts.

MUNSHREE MOHANLALJI CENTRAL LIBRARY.

The fourth annual report of this well-known and popular Jain institution for 11 months ending 31st December 1913, has just been issued. The working of the Library shows remarkable progress—the number of books issued in the year being 10,895, as against 10,028 of the prvious year, The cost of establishment and management came to about two annas per book, the money spent in conducting the Library being nearly Rs. 1,548 which was about three annas per book, the expenditure being Rs. 2,100 in the previous year. Rs. 894-7-9 were spent in the purchase of new books in the year under Report. The money spent on the purchase of new books, being nearly Rs. 1,000 every year for a central Library, is too meagre and it is expected that the Trustees will see their way to set apart a larger sum towards a nice collection.

Mr. H. P. T. Lattey, Acting Coroner, held an inquest yesterday touching the deaths of Sagunabai, aged 25, and Dhaku, aged 30, who were killed by the partial collapse of a godown under construction at Carnac Road the previous day. Among the persons injured was his wife Luxmibai, who also worked there.

The further enquiry was adjourned.

"THE MAGISTRATE."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—As appears in your advertisement columns the A.D.C. are giving three performances of "The Magistrate" on the 24th, 25th and 26th September. The Excelsior Company have very generously made great reductions in their rates for the theatre, and have also at a merely nominal cost handed over the Refreshment Bars for the entertainment. The latter along with a cigar divan will be in charge of a staff of ladies and gentlemen and everything will be of the best and the prices not too moderate. The selling of programmes, button holes, and sweets will be in the hands of other ladies. I hope soon to publish a list of helpers, which will prove so attractive as to ensure full houses. The intervals will be substantial and at the end of them those who can tear themselves away from the refreshment bars will no doubt witness the play.—Yours, etc.

D. B. BINNING.

P.S.—Any ladies or gentlemen who will contribute wines, whisky, aerated waters, sweets, cigars, or cigarettes might kindly notify me at Gool Mansions. By doing so they will help to swell the proceeds and their contributions will be gratefully acknowledged.

INDIAN AGRICULTURE AND THE WAR.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—As the war is going on in Europe, all import and export business is at a standstill. In consequence some Indian products such as cotton, linseed etc., have greatly been reduced in price thereby entailing a very heavy loss to all merchants concerned in that trade. As the monsoon is good, the next good crop is very likely to reduce the price of cotton still further. In order to keep up the price of cotton at an average, it is reported that Government is just thinking of taking steps to pursuade the cultivators and farmers to grow more of grain and less of cotton; so that the prices of grain may be reduced and that of cotton may at least remain as usual. In this way the Government will confer a great boon on several linseed or seed merchants by advocating the same cause in regard to the growing of linseed as the prices of linseed and other seeds have greatly gone down and are still likely to be reduced if the crop of same will be as usual. If the attention of the Government is drawn towards this point the prices of grain which are likely to increase in future will be on the contrary reduced and thereby the Government will greatly oblige the poorer classes by helping them in an indirect way.—Yours, etc.,

BOMBAY AMUSEMENTS.

THE EXCELSIOR.

To-night a remarkable film will be shown entitled "The Man Who Dared" or a naturalist's wanderings in many lands with a cinema camera. "The man who dared" is Mr. Cherry Kearton, the famous hunter, who spends a good deal of his time in India where for years he has been trying to take a photo of a bengal tiger in its natural state. In this film he has succeeded. He has also had the temerity to go right up to a full sized Python in an Assam jungle and take several feet of film of this reptile moving along a tree trunk. A special party of American Cowboys accompanied Mr. Kearton in British East Africa where they made a point of lassoing every wild animal they could round up. Some remarkable pictures are shown of a ferocious lioness being lassoed and a terrible struggle indulged in before she was finally caged. An eight hours' fight is also shown, but no account of lassoing could keep the monster in captivity and it escaped during the night.

AMERICA-INDIA CINEMA.

This popular place of entertainment is providing a strong picture-programme this week. The star drama is "The Master Crook," showing the novel and interesting adventures of a gentleman burglar, who becomes the leader of a gang of thieves, and takes the leading part in a daring robbery, in which he carries off a precious diamond necklace from a jeweller's shop-window. After several startling incidents, he is saved from a horrible death by a blind girl, and in gratitude he has her cured by a doctor, who turns out to be no other than the owner of the stolen necklace. So the necklace is restored to its rightful owner, and all ends happily.

The programme also includes a fine war drama, "The Red Cross Martyr," giving some excellent scenes of aerial warfare, and a new series of "Animated Cartoons," which are becoming quite a popular feature at this theatre.

IMPERIAL CINEMA.

The Imperial have booked a magnificent film by the famous Pathe Russian Company entitled "The Masked Wrestler." Circus life invariably gives us a good picture film from a photographer's point of view, the surroundings being always so full of life. This time there are quite a big collection of thrilling incidents. The wrestling scenes are really excellently done, and, of course, there is the usual love affairs bound up in the story. Those who have had the privilege of seeing the film privately at the weekly trial are loud in their praise of it. A good comedy is also included in the list to be shown "When the eye does not see" and it is just full of fun and laughs. A smaller drama is also booked, an American one, entitled "A Scoundrel's Chance" and a spice of variety is added by the inclusion of an acrobatic film "The Human Pyramids." Pathe's War Gazette is expected on Monday evening.

At the Olympia Picture Palace will be shown from to-night a beautiful film entitled "The Serpentine Dancer," in which the wife of an animal-tamer proves faithless to her husband. Another star film is "Princess of Lorraine," being a leaf from French history. Among other films "Norwegian Waterfalls" and several comics will prove of interest.

COCAINE PROSECUTION.

At the Esplanade Police Court, yesterday Mr. A. H. S. Aston, Chief Presidency Magistrate, disposed of the case in which Excise Inspector Hudson charged Mohamed Abdulla with selling a packet of cocaine without a license and Ibrahim Mohamed with abetment. Ibrahim was also charged with being in possession of three packets of cocaine.

The case for the prosecution was that a man was sent with marked coins to purchase cocaine from the accused. They sold one packet and were arrested. The second accused tried to swallow three packets of cocaine, which were, however, forced out of his month.

The accused were convicted, and previous convictions were also proved against them.

The first accused was sentenced to six months', and the second to three months' rigorous imprisonment.

THEFT OF A NECKLACE.

At the Esplanade Police Court, before Mr. Frank Oliviera, third Presidency Magistrate, Inspector O'Brien charged Chhaganlal Malokchand and Hemraj Shivram with the theft of a gold necklace, set with emeralds, valued at Rs. 1,000.

The case for the prosecution was that on hearing that there was a dispute between the first accused and one Manilal Lachiram over a necklace, the police made enquiries in the matter. The first accused then alleged that he had entrusted Manilal with the necklace for sale, and that the latter had done away with it. It, however, subsequently appeared that Chhaganlal had robbed his master Govind Lalji Maharaj, a Bhattia priest, of the necklace and given it to Manilal for sale, and that it was subsequently stolen from Manilal by the second accused. The ornament was eventually recovered from the second accused.

Both the accused were convicted, the first being sentenced to six months' and the second accused to three months' rigorous imprisonment respectively.

QUADRANGULAR CRICKET.

PREPARING FOR THE FIGHT.

Preparations for the great international cricket contest, which commences on Monday, are going on apace. The Presidency, the Parsis and the Mahomedans have already selected their teams, while the Hindu eleven will be selected to-morrow. The opening match of the tournament commences on Monday, when the Parsis meet the Mahomedans. The Hon. Sir Ebrahim Rahimtoola and Mr. H. C. Tyebji and their colleagues of the Mahomedan Selection Committee have been fortunate in getting together a yet stronger eleven than the one that did service for them last year. On the other hand the Parsis are leaving no stone unturned to avenge last year's defeat, and Mr. J. S. Warden, their skipper, is straining every nerve to put his men in the best fighting trim for Monday's contest. The famous Parsi all-rounder has almost completely got over the injury to the muscles of his leg which he sustained last week, and is in as good form as he ever was.

The match on the first day commences at 11-30 a.m. and on the second and third day at 12 noon, stumps being drawn on each day at 6 p.m. An adjournment will be made for lunch each day at 2 p.m. for an hour, and in the event of a side fielding for a period of an hour and a half or more after the luncheon interval, another adjournment will be made for tea at 4-30 p.m. for ten minutes.

THE MAHOMEDAN TEAM.

The Mahomedan Selection Committee again met last night, when the following were finally selected to play against the Parsis on Monday:—

1. Mr. C. M. Ali, (Capt.), Bombay.
2. Mr. Feroze Khan, Kashmere.
3. Mr. K. Tumboowalla, Bombay.
4. Mr. Khan Mahomed, Aligarh.
5. Mr. Maslahodin Khan, Aligarh.
6. Mr. Usuf Beg, Poona.
7. Mr. Nazir Hussein, Amritsar.
8. Mr. P. B. Erfani, Bombay.
9. Mr. Saleh Mahomed, Kashmere.
10. Mr. S. A. Aziz, Bombay.
11. Mr. S. H. Shah, Kashmere.

Reserve:—Mr. S. A. Razaak.
Umpire:—Mr. M. M. Ali.

It will appear from the above list that it is by far the strongest combination of any that has represented the Mahomedans in the Quadrangular contest in the past. The attack will be delivered by Saleh Mahomed, Khan Mahomed, Aziz and Shah; while in Usuf Beg, Nazir Hussein, Ferozekhan and Maslahodin the team possesses a brilliant quartette of batsmen who might be relied upon to make a good stand. There are three new-comers—Khan Mahomed of Aligarh, a fine bowler; Maslahodin, also of Aligarh, a brilliant bat and field; and Shah of Kashmere, a bowler of more than average ability. One noteworthy fact about the team is that most of the players are all-rounders.

BOMBAY UNIVERSITY SENATE.

At the outset the Vice-Chancellor conferred degrees on students who had passed the L. C. E., L. M. and S., B. Ag., M.B. B. S., B. A., LL. B. and M. A. examinations he having appointed the as a graduation day.

The fellows then proceeded to revise the regulations for the award of University Scholarships and Prizes consequent on the abolition of the Previous examination and the adoption of the new arts curriculum. THE ROYAL YAKUTI.
(ANANG VILAS.)

THIS YAKUTI or life-giving nectar has been prepared from the best, choicest and richest vegetable drugs. It has a wonderful property of increasing the nerve power and is a specific for diseases. This valuable medicine is used in large quantities among Rajas, Maharajas and many of our esteemed customers. But we have ventured to give it publication simply with a view to place it before the general public owing to the demand of several friends. It is needless to expatiate upon the magical qualities of this our invaluable medicine. We would not like to blow the French horn as is the fashion of the day, but suffice it to say that the use of this medicine is recommended to those who have any faith in the efficacy of Ayurvedic and Unani medicines. We recommend it also to those persons who desire to tone up the nervous system, to strengthen the body, refresh the memory, and to guard against debility. It works like a charm and the effect is lasting. It restores strength, and it is enough to say that musk is not that which a perfumer admires, it is that which diffuses fragrance of its own accord. Price per tin containing 40 pills, Rupees ten only. Postage extra. No PAHERE necessary.

INDIA'S LOYALTY SEEKS EXPRESSION.

Every country has its National Song, but India. At a moment when all races, creeds and communities dwelling within her borders are bursting with enthusiastic loyalty to the Empire, she finds herself without vocal and musical expression.

This want has been supplied by

A. C. COWEN'S

"Song of the Indian Empire,"

a stirring anthem which gives full vocal and musical expression to the patriotic feelings which at this moment animate us all, irrespective of race or creed. It appeals to the patriotism and voices the feelings of every British subject in India, and is a splendid piece of musical composition.

PROGRESS OF THE WAR.

The great rout of the Austrian forces, after a seven days' engagement east of Lemberg, is a crushing blow from which the Austrian Army is not likely to recover quickly. We are told four Austrian army corps were engaged in the battle, and that enormous losses have been inflicted upon them. Lemberg has been occupied and 40,000 prisioners taken. Austria possesses sixteen army corps; two are reported to have been badly mauled by the Servians, and these, together with the more or less disabled four in Galicia, leaves twelve corps fit for immediate action. The outstanding feature of the war in the eastern theatre is the continued success of the Russians. So far only one small reverse is reported in East Prussia which is attributed by the Russians to the superiority of the German siege guns and the arrival of overwhelming reinforcements. The Russians do not minimise the effects of this reverse. On the contrary they have throughout the campaign displayed an admirable spirit embodied in the recent advice to their nationals, not to be elated by success or depressed by failure. Actuated by such a spirit it goes without saying that they will prosecute the campaign and press home their advantages with the utmost vigour. The Russian advance proves beyond doubt the capacity for recuperation possessed by her army after the exhausting experiences of the war with Japan. In that war the Russians were fighting for the materialisation of a policy of aggrandisement which the people did not understand and did not want. In the present war they are fired with a zeal so patriotic as to be almost religious in its fervour. We do not share the optimism of those who look upon the Russian arrival at Berlin and Vienna as being imminent. The road to Vienna or Budapesth that ha yet to be traversed is a long one, and very strenuous fighting may take place before the advance on Berlin can be said to have begun in earnest. But the outlook in the eastern theatre of the war is undoubtedly hopeful, leaving little room for doubt that neither the Austrians nor the Prussians were prepared for such a speedy appearance of the Russians on their frontiers, and that Germany has thrown the bulk of her offensive weight on the French sid

The occupation of Lemberg has a dual significance. Firstly, Lemberg is a great garrison town on the direct route to Przemysl, one of the greatest fortified camps in Austria, and the key to Galicia; secondly it is the capital of Austrian Poland and the headquarters of the pro-Russian faction. Moreover, it is the fourth city of the Austrian Empire. It seems as though the Russian strategical scheme is now to advance inland to Przemysl and then on to Cracow, the ancient capital. With Cracow, Lemberg and Przemysl in Russian hands, the Austrian Empire will be outdone, for then her most valued Slavonic centres will have gone. Moreover, Cracow is within a few hours march of the Prussian frontier and, may be, it is the preconcerted plan of the Allies that the Tsar's army should push on into Silesia, and invest Salzburg on the way, and thus further distract the General Staff in the unknown seat of their headquarters. The realisation must sooner or later be forced upon Germany that she is between two fires, and has not time to extinguish one before the other overtakes her. So far her ally has not been able to render her any measure of the assistance that is vital to her success in this campaign, a fact that is not surprising, seeing that Austria does not appear to be even strong enough to save herself. Unlike Russia she is not waging a war that inspires the peoples within her borders with enthusiasm. With her immense Slavonic population, she should have thought twice before before embarking upon an anti-Slavonic campaign. The collapse of the Austrian arms on the banks of the Styr is in itself reassuring, for there Austria had gathered the flower of her Army to stem the advance of the hosts of the Tsar.

From Konigsberg also the news is good. The Russians seem to have made good their setback of two days ago, and the great Prussian fortress of the north is being fiercely invested. A Viceregal announcement confirms the further advance of the French into Lorraine and anyone, who glances at a map, marked out with the various positions of the armies, will see for himself how satisfactorily the campaign is progressing in the west. The French Army moves in an eastern direction whilst the Prussians are pushing their way in the west with mad haste. Either the Germans are ignorant of the strength and the positions of the Allies or they are in a desperate condition. The Paris forts can hold the enemy 16 miles off and, while the Germans are wasting time in attempting the investment of Paris, without rendering themselves any great service, the Allies will have ample time to carry out three distinct moves. Firstly, the French, British and Belgians can sweep down from the north coast of France, all along the Belgian frontier; secondly, the French from Lorraine can advance quickly up the Rhine and make a junction with the former force north of Luxemburg. Thirdly, the Russians can advance from Cracow into Wurtemberg, Silesia and Bavaria and get their cavalry columns into contact with those in France. This, however, is looking somewhat far ahead. For the present it is sufficient to take note of the rate with which apparently the Germans are being allowed to push down their right wing,—already their patrols are expected near Paris,—and to assimilate this fact and the premature retirement of the French Government with the explanation of the situation in France which we gave yesterday.

Notes of the Day

India's Opportunity.

The news that the Director of Commercial Intelligence is conducting an enquiry into what extent Indian products hitherto exported to Germany and Austria-Hungary are likely to be taken to other countries, and the possibility of establishing in this country for manufacture of articles hitherto exported from Germany and Austria-Hungary is welcome as indicating the desire of the Government of India to turn the present inconveniences to India brought on by the war to practical account. It is, of course, very necessary that the enquiry should be thorough, covering every aspect of these two important problems, on the proper solution of which, combined with the industrial capacity and energy of the Indian people, depends the future of Indian industries. It is to be earnestly hoped the official enquiry will lead to a new Swadeshi movement, stronger and more efficient than in the past. Everyone realises that India will remain poor as long as she cannot work up her raw materials which she has now to send abroad to be converted into finished products for her own use. She has so long been handicapped by the constant influx of manufactures from countries far more advantageously placed than herself, that if the present opportunity is not utilised to the full the revival of her industries will be rendered even more remote than now. The present paralysis of Continental trade, if attended by temporary inconveniences and even dislocation, ought to mark the beginning of a new era of future prosperity for the country.

Mr. Carnegie's Frail Reed.

We have received a copy of the text of Mr. Carnegie's notable address in the Palace of Peace at the Hague, delivered on August 29th of last year on the occasion of the unveiling of the bust of Sir Randal Cromer. It is difficult to read this remarkable document, so full of a lofty purpose, without a sense of poignant regret, but, under existing conditions in the world, the time has not yet come when the sword can be turned into a ploughshare. It is an impossible ideal as long as men like the present Kaiser hold sway over millions of men. Mr. Carnegie made a reference to the German Emperor which is singularly apposite at this hour in the light of present happenings, and is not without an element of grim humour. He said:—

Surveying the world to-day the most striking figure seen is another Emperor, the German Emperor, who has recently celebrated his twenty-fifth year of peaceful reign, his hands unstained with human blood—a unique record—hence Germany's astounding progress educationally, industrially, and commercially, proving that the greatest of all national blessings is peace.

In the course of his address Mr. Carnegie declared that the German Emperor held in his hand the torch of peace, and "should apply the needed spark." The Kaiser has, however, preferred to light the torch of war, thus proving to the apostles of Peace that he has been a frail reed.

Germany's Pacific Possessions.

The German possessions in the Pacific are at present the subject-matter of more than one telegram from Reuter, which points to the probability in the near future of Germany's ceasing to hold any sway in the Pacific. As has been observed by us long since, the question as to how Germany proposed to defend the Pacific possessions in the event of a declaration of war with Germany has always been a matter of mystery, especially as her Navy in those waters can lay claim to no superior strength. The fact remains that Germany has held these possessions and they are now gradually and irretrievably falling into the hands of the Allies. Germany's principal possession in the Pacific is German New Guinea, commonly called Emperor William's Land, since the claims of the British and Germans were defined in 1886. That the annexation of German New Guinea would be worth the powder and shot that would possibly be expended with this object in view may be gathered from the fact that it has an area of 70,149 sq. miles with a population of 130,000. The principal export is copra. The major portion of the population is engaged in the husbanding of plantations which are extensive. Due north-east of New Guinea is the Bismarck Archipelago named after the famous Chancellor of the German Empire (1871-1890). The islands in this Archipelago comprise an area of 22,050 square miles with a population of 250,000. Further North-east in Micronesia are two chains of coral islands known as the Marshall Island which, including Pleasant Island, have an aggregate area of 160 square miles with a population of 16,000.

The Samoan Islands.

Samoa (Navigators' Island), which has recently surrendered to New Zealand, has been the subject of historical interest. The name Samoa is given to a group of volcanic islands 6,000 feet high in Polynesia. In 1889 the Samoan Treaty was signed at a Conference held at Berlin between Great Britain, Germany and the United States. In the same year the neutrality of these islands was guaranteed, but ten years later several of the islands were ceded to Germany and others to the United States. The area of the islands of Savaii and Upolu which belong to Germany represents 999 square miles and the population 33,000 including 450 Europeans who are all Christians. The imports represent a value of £125,000 and the exports, which are copra to the extent of 98 per cent., represent £76,470. Of the trade practically half is with the British colonies and the remaining half equally with the United States and Germany. As much as 91 per cent. of the tonnage entered is British and it is easy to gather from this latter fact that the trade with these islands would be paralysed were it not for British marine enterprise.

The Carolines.

Next in importance come the Caroline islands in view of the copper products therein. These islands include the hilly islands of Palau, more commonly spelt Pelew, which are situate in the Coral Archipelago in the East. The total population of these islands is 41,000 and the area 560 square miles. The Marianas islands in the Pacific also belong to Germany,—all with the exception of Guam which belongs to the United States. These islands are due south of Japan, and as is to be expected are subject to spasmodic seismic disturbances. In the North islands there are six active volcanoes which are the source of very much anxiety. The islands represent an area of 240 square miles with a population of 2,700. Despite the comparatively meagre population an extensive trade is carried on, principally with Japan, who absorb 71 per cent. of the same. The imports figure at £74,000 and the exports £62,700. From these facts it will be seen that, although Germany's military strength does not count for much in the Pacific, her possessions, if unmolested and accessible to her merchant ships, could have provided a goodly proportion of the sinews of war for the Vaterland in the West.

THE ARMY OF THE "LITTLE FATHER".

THE TARTAR AND THE COSSACK.

(Specially written for "The Chronicle.")

I venture to assert that nowhere in the world can such strange things be seen as from the window of a wagon lit on the great Far Eastern Railway from Petrograd to Vladivostok,—things so incongruous that the mind recoils from trusting the vision too far. I recollect that, quite a short while ago, I saw on this line the strangest natural phenomena that it has been my fate to come across in Europe. I happened to look out of the window of the luxurious restaurant car, a few miles out of Irkutsk,—we were waiting for a signal, —, when I saw, not five yards away from me, an individual who might have been Robinson Crusoe or a character from a Rhine Legend. He was dressed in some roughly made garment of wolf skin which reached within a few inches of his knees; thence downwards his legs and feet were covered with strips of skins, wound puttee fashion, whilst on his head he wore a sort of cape belonging to the wolf skin coat and formed out of the animal's head.

To complete the get-up this remarkable creature carried half-a-dozen uncouth daggers and a bow and arrows!

And all this within five yards of the most luxurious railway in the world!

When we reached Irkutsk, this strange creature of whom I had made a sketch on the spot was explained to me. He was a Tartar from the Volga, a man of Mongol-Turkish descent, who far back in history, long before Mahomed came to Constantinople, had migrated into Siberia and had led a nomadic residence there for centuries.

A MIGHTY HOST.

The other day we learnt that the Russian Army had already had ten million recruits for service in the war. Anyone who has travelled through the Tsar's dominions finds ample food for reflection, as to what may be the component parts of this mighty host.

We are in the habit of talking of the Russians as a nation,—as one race,—yet it is surely absurd. The Russian Army is composed of European Russians, Cossacks from the Don, and from the Caucasus, Circassians, Georgians, Finns, Poles, Mongols, Mahommedans, Chinese, at least a dozen different Siberian tribes, and, lastly, the tribe of the "phenomena" of Irkutsk,—the Tartars. Now a man who is armed with a bow and arrow can make quite a good soldier, when you give him a sabre and good horse. And this is precisely what the "Little Father" does. The rough cavalry which will shortly come to grips in East Prussia with the crack Horse and Foot of the Kaiser will leave an indelible mark on the German army. The Russian Tommy is a charming character. He is terribly ferocious in war, but as meek as a lamb in peace, merely an overgrown baby. His childish interest in an electric torch, a patent pencil, a fountain pen, proclaims him the child of a primitive civilisation

LOVE FOR THE TSAR.

But that which is his chief characteristic is his intense love for his Tsar, his "Little Father." The Tsar is with his troops, perhaps more than any other monarch; for the autocrat of the Great Russians is at home a simple-minded man. He stands to his soldiers as their supreme Commander, their Patron, and above all as the head of the Church. It is the Tsar who on solemn occasions rides down the ranks of his massed troops with a Sacred Ikon in his hand to give his High Priestly benediction. And all this causes him to be regarded by the Russian Tommy as a semi-sacred personage.

The man who once wore wolf-skins and stalked the snow-bound wastes of Siberia, like a modern Valkyrie, is soon knocked into shape, and some day wears the brilliant green uniform of the Dragoons of the Guard, and clatters and clanks with the bravado "en militaire" in the shadow of the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul. One day he returns to his ice-bound village under the Urals, or on the shores of Baikal and becomes a simple Moujik (peasant) again, and works for the "Wielke wielke barin" (the great Lord) in the forests. But while he is with the Colours of his "Little Father" he is no clumsy Moujik, but one of the most stubborn fighters in the world, a man who can march for miles without food or water, who can stand extremes of cold and hardship and who, given good commanders and a tolerable commissariat, could conquer the world.

THE COSSACKS.

While such are the ordinary soldiers of the Tsar, there is one branch of his army, without mention of which any article on such a subject would be incomplete. These are the Cossacks. The word Cossack is derived from the Turki word quzzak and means a "freebooter." This in itself is an indication of the hereditary instincts of these famous tribes. They own 146,500,000 acres of land and their villages known as "stanitza" are considered each as a commune. They enjoy various privileges and in return guarantee 20 years' actual service with the colours, of each able-bodied man. They are divided into ten distinct divisions or Voiszkos, and their annual aggregate income is about £800,000, derived chiefly from rents, mine concessions, etc., granted to non-Cossacks.

In peace time the Cossack Voiszkos send each a representative to the Ministry of War at Petrograd, who make all new laws affecting the Cossacks who enjoy the high confidence of the Tsar.

RUSSIANS OCCUPY LEMBERG.

40,000 PRISONERS TAKEN.

FRANCE'S DETERMINED SPIRIT.

NO PEACE, TRUCE OR FALTERING.

LULL IN WESTERN THEATRE.

The Russians occupied Lemberg last Thursday, and fierce fighting continues along the whole front. In seven days' fighting they have captured forty thousand prisoners.

In the western theatre there seems to be a full in the fighting. A Paris communique states the Allied forces have not been in contact with the enemy in Compiegne and the Senlis region since yesterday.

A Paris proclamation states that none of the Allied armies is impaired, the gaps having been immediately repaired from the reserves. The struggle must continue, adds the proclamation, without peace, truce, cessation or faltering. The departure of the French Government from Paris is regarded in Britain as a sound move which will give freedom of movement to the Allies' armies and guarantee their eventual success.

THE CITY OF WINCHESTER.

OFFICERS AND CREW PASSENGERS RESCUED BY B. I. BOAT.

(REUTER'S SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.)

LONDON, Sept. 4.

A censored message says that the British India steamer Palamcotta has arrived at Mozambique with the captain, most of the officers and European crew, and two passengers of the City of Winchester. The latter are Messrs. T. G. Cameron and Laird, of Calcutta.

The captain reports that on the night of August 6th he was held up by the steamer Koenigsberg from Dar-es-salam. An officer with seven men went aboard the City of Winchester and said the ship was under martial law. He ordered the captain to follow the Koenigsberg. They reached the Arabian coast the next day and steamed to Makalla.

The City of Winchester was reported on August 23rd to have been sunk by the Germans. She was a new ship, and was in fact, on the return half of her maiden trip when she was sunk. She left Calcutta on July 23rd. The City of Winchester had a registered displacement of 4,231 tons and was probably carrying a cargo of 7,000 to 8,000 tons. The Palamcotta is a B. A WAR OF EXHAUSTION.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LAHORE, Sept. 3.

The following are the Civil and Military Gazette's" special cables:—

London September 2: Apparently the Germans, while withdrawing the first line of troops from Belgium, are arranging to replace them by the Landwehr and Landsturm, of whom 80,000 are said to have been ordered to Brussels.

The suggestion has been issued in Paris that women and children there having relatives in the provinces should join them.

Several writers point out that this must be a war of exhaustion. The German methods of pushing the advance are the costliest in men and ammunition. Only a worn army can arrive at Paris, where the outer ring of forts has a circumference of 80 miles.

London, September 2:—The Queen of the Belgians and her children are the guests of Lord Curzon of Kedleston at Hackwood. The Queen returns to Belgium shortly.

WAR AND DEVELOPMENT OF INDIGENOUS INDUSTRIES.

BENGAL GOVERNMENT INSTITUTES ENQUIRY.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CALCUTTA, Sept. 4

Mr. J. A. L. Swan has been placed by the Government temporarily on a special duty to enquire into and report on the possibilities of development of indigenous industries in Bengal in the circumstances caused by the outbreak of hostilities in Europe. His duties will include the examination of such industries as the previous industrial surveys in 1890 and in 1898 have shown to be capable of expansion and the ascertainment from those who favour an advance at the present time of the precise lines on which advance is possible. It is also intended that he should put himself in communication on the one hand with those who are likely to invest capital in industrial enterprises and on the other hand with those who have the initiative and experience for utilizing such capital.

GOODS ON GERMAN VESSELS.

The following Press Note has been issued:—

A question having arisen as to the position of goods shipped by Merchants on German vessels before the outbreak of war, Government have been advised as follows:—

(a) goods, if consigned to British or neutral Ports and not contraband destined for enemy, might be released, at the instance of the owner by the officer of a Prize Court;

(b) if consigned to person in enemy country they are not immune from confiscation, unless it is proved that they were shipped at consignor's risk; where shipped at consignee's risk they are liable to confiscation, even if the British vendor is unpaid. In the latter case the consignors could probably appear in the Prize Court proceedings and urge their equitable claims to the consideration of the Crown. The goods must first be condemned but the Crown could, of its bounty and if it thought fit, release those consigned by British subjects and so give British claimants a good title.

A FRENCH RELIEF FUND.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—At a time like the present every one of us who is unable to help directly must be anxious to give as much indirect help as he can to those who are fighting our battles in Europe. The calls on our purses are heavy and frequent, but I would invite the attention of all to one means of helping which, so far as I am aware, has been brought to notice only in the columns of one paper. I refer to the help which we would give to the sick and wounded of the French Army. There can be no doubt that by far the greater part of the losses sustained and damage done will be sustained by the French Army and done to France and to the French people. As a warm friend to France and to the French I personally am glad to give what little help I can to our gallant allies. But, leaving on one side all feeling of sentiment, I venture to appeal to my fellow countrymen to realise the obligation which rests upon us to help our friends at this time of stress. The losses of our allies will exceed the losses of England and all her dependencies by a far greater proportion than that in which her combatting forces exceed ours; for the damage done to her country and to her non-combatants must be taken into account. We, in India, can afford no help in money which will be of real consideration compared with the immense, the enormous sums which will be required to repair the ravages caused by this war. But we can do something to show our allies that our thoughts are with our friends, that we sympathise with them in their afflictions; that we have the wish to help and that, so far as we are able to do so, we are of friendly feelings towards the gallant fellows now fighting with us the barbarous hordes of Germany.

I hear that the French Consulate and the French Firms in Bombay are subscribing money for the French Red Cross. Those who wish to help the sick and wounded of the French Army can not do better than send their contributions to the French Bank (Comptoir National d'Escompte de Paris) to be credited to this Fund and from time to time the sums so received will be sent by the French Consul to His Excellency the French Minister for Foreign affairs.—Yours, etc.,

BOMBAY WOMEN'S BRANCH.

THREE MORE CENTRES OPENED.

So rapidly has the work of the Women's Branch of the Bombay Presidency War and Relief Fund grown, that in order to relieve the pressure on the Central Office at 4 Waterloo Mansions three more centres have been opened in houses kindly lent for the purpose. On Wednesday afternoon her Excellency Lady Willingdon visited these centres, going first to that presided over by Mrs. J. B. Petit, the Parsee Lady Secretary at her own house in Pedder Road. Here the lower floor of the house has been entirely devoted to the work and when her Excellency arrived, she found many Parsee ladies busily engaged in cutting out garments which were speedily sent out to be made. Dirjies and ayahs were machining sheets and pillow-cases for instant despatch to the Central Office to be forwarded, through the St. John Ambulance Depot, to the front, for use in hospitals. Her Excellency spent half an hour in seeing all that was being done and talking over the best means in which to help the troops in the field, and congratulated this centre very heartily on hearing that many thousands of articles had already been given out to be made.

The next centre visited was that in the hall of the Guzerathi Hindu Stree Mandal, Servants of India Building, Sandhurst Road. Here the work is distributed and arranged by Mrs. Sirur, the Hindu Lady Secretary, and although forty or fifty ladies were at work, it is only one of four very active Hindu circles. Her Excellency found many ladies hard at work machining, while others did finer hand-sewing. Here, again, it was splendid to learn that thousands of articles were being sewn at the homes of many of the ladies. Dirjies were at work in an inner room, and Mrs Sirur was able to tell Lady Willingdon that she intended taking many finished garments to the Central Office on Thursday for despatch. Her Excellency expressed her delight at the fine activity displayed at this centre, and asked Mrs. Sirur to congratulate all the ladies and to tell them that every article was to be stamped with the words, "From the women of the Bombay Presidency" before it was sent to be packed.

The next centre visited was in the houses of Mrs. Ahmedbhoy Currimbhoy and Mrs. Gulamhussain Currimbhoy, where Dilshad Begum, the Mahomedan Lady Secretary and five or six Mahomedan ladies have opened an office for the special convenience of purdah ladies. Her Excellency was greatly interested to find the ladies at this centre busily engaged machining sheets. At least 50 purdah ladies were occupied in this task, working their machines with a will, and to such advantage that the centre of one of the rooms was piled high with completed articles ready for despatch to the Central Office to be stamped and forwarded, through the St John Ambulance Depot. Her Excellency was told that the work being done at the centre was but a tittle of that which has been taken to the houses of ladies to be sewn in smaller circles held by them. Here, again, thousands of articles have been given out and are in process of being made. Lady Willingdon said how greatly pleased she was with the activity displayed in this centre, and congratulated all on their fine work.

These centres are in daily communication with the Central Offices, where the Secretaries and their willing helpers meet at least once a day to place their orders for materials with the Hon. Depot Manager, Mr. Frazer, to hand over to the Treasurer sums of money collected by them and present the gifts that have been received during the day. And last, but by no means least, to compare notes with the workers at the Central Office, to decide together the best means in their combined power, to alleviate distress and suffering caused by the war as far as it is possible to do so. "Unity is strength," and the results of a fortnight's work by the united efforts of the four communities of women in Bombay has proved this to the full.

JEWISH PRAYER OF SUPPLICATION.

The following prayer of supplication consequent on the declaration of war, will be offered in the Beni Israel Gate of Mercy Synagogue at Mandvi during this morning's service. A similar prayer will be offered in the other local Bene Israel Synagogues at the same time:—

O Lord God of Hosts! Thou art our refuge and strength, a very present help in our trouble. With anxious minds and trembling hearts we approach Thee today in prayer and supplication. Kingdoms shake and nations tremble. The shout of the warrior and the roar of battle resound to the ends of the earth because of the fury of the oppressor. The terrors of war are upon us; they have come close to our gates.

Yet we will not fear Thou, who searchest the hearts of men and knowest the innermost thoughts of rulers, will judge our cause. Our fathers trusted in Thee and Thou didst deliver them. To Thee alone our eyes are lifted up, who bringest low the haughty and protectest the up right in spirit. With Thine own wisdom direct the rulers and counsellers of our nation. Gird our hosts with strength and courage on land and on sea. Keep Thou far from us pestilence and famine; and shield our homes from sorrow and hurt.

Our Father, our King! hearken unto our cry; save us for Thy name's sake, so that loyalty and faithfulness be indeed the stability of our times. Speedily cause righteousness to triumph and the lovers of justice to rejoice; and hasten the day when Thy tabernacle of peace shall be spread over all the children of men, for evermore. Amen.

Cardinal Della Chiesa has been elected Pope, and has assumed the title of Benedict Fifteenth.

LONDON, Sept. 3, 12-30 p.m.

The new Pope was the Archbishop of Bologna.

Mgr. Giacomo della Chiesa, Archbishop of Bologna was born at Pegli, near Genoa, on the 21st of November, 1854, of the family of the Marquess della Chiesa. He was ordained priest on the 21st of December, 1878, next year took the degree of Doctor of Both Laws, and then entered the Academy of Noble Ecclesiastics. Immediately after leaving it, he was appointed by Pope Leo the XIII Secretary of the Nuncio at Madrid. He entered into close relations to the then Nuncio in Madrid, Mgr. Rampolla-del Tindaro, the later Secretary of State, who at once recognised that della Chiesa was both an excellent diplomatist and a man of great power of work. Hence, when Mgr. Rampolla received the purple, and was appointed Secretary of State, he at once made Mgr. della Chiesa president of his Cabinet. He next succeeded to the post of the Under-Secretary of State, and also in this position he always remained Cardinal Rampolla's right-hand man. After the death of Leo XIII, Mgr. della Chiesa was confirmed in his office by Pius X, and was again president of the Cabinet under the new Secretary of State Mgr. Merry del Val. On the 16th of December, 1907, he was raised to the Archiepiscopal chair of Bologna, his consecration being performed by the Pope himself in the Sistine Chapel. He was made a Cardinal last April.

OPINIONS OF THE DAY.

Behind Our Backs.

"The Indian Daily News."—The petition of practically every German firm in Calcutta to be allowed to trade is an impudent attempt to take advantage of the extraordinary leniency with which they have been allowed to remain in this city. We do not say that lepiency was wrong. have been allowed to remain in this city. We do not say that leniency was wrong, but we do say the petition is impudent. As a matter of fact in the list of names there is the name of one firm which has been called for years in popular parlance (justly or not, we do not know) a German spy and the name of another whose head partner is fighting against us, while the junior proposes to make money out of us. The whole idea, as a matter of fact, violates the latest English policy wired out to us of curtailing German trade, and we do not suppose for one moment that the Government of India will listen to the request which is made almost as if this trading was a matter of course. Of course it is nothing of the sort. Prior to the treaty of Amiens British subjects were allowed under strict precautions occasionally to trade with the enemy. After the Berlin decrees boycotting British goods on the Continent, our policy changed and licenses were given freely in order to get our goods on to the Continent. At present we do not desire to get our goods to Germany, we want to prevent Germany getting our goods. And that being so, the reason fails. Another reason is that it appears that some Germans in India have grossly betrayed the generosity of the permission to live here. There is reason to suppose that there was far more spying and far more secret intrigue than has met the eye, and for our part we are exceedingly glad that the Government of India thinks it necessary to intern the Germans at Ahmednagar (which is close to Baroda. It is not usual to imprison prisoners of war unless there is necessity, but from all we here we think there is an absolute necessity to imprison some of them and intern the rest. Act 24 of the Brussels Conference of 1874 provides for this as a matter of security.

Indian Soldiers to the Front.

"The Leader."—We believe we are right in thinking that India is indebted in the first instance to her high-minded Viceroy Lord Hardinge for the proposal, that her children should be given an opportunity of demonstrating the service they can render to her Sovereign and his empire, and deep and abiding is the gratitude that will be felt for his Excellency whose title to glory as an Indian Viceroy was already so great. We feel grateful to Lord Crewe for his glowing tribute to the 'high-souled' Indian soldiers with an ancient civilisation as well as for his most truthful testimony to the enthusiastic loyalty of Indians at the present time. Themselves struggling for political liberty and permeated by British notions of freedom and justice, they recognise most keenly what a colossal wrong Germany has done to Belgium and how essential it is to the cause of civilisation and human progress, including therein the ordered advancement of their own country, that it should be vanquished as a result of the present war wantonly provoked by itself and its ally. His lordship was therefore justified completely in saying that there was no fear of any internal trouble in India. No; there is none. We feel confident that the final result of the war will prove once and for all that his Majesty's Government need and should never hesitate in drawing freely on India's Sikh, Gurkha, Dogra and Rajput soldiery for serving the empire anywhere and at any time and against any enemy.

Indian Army and the War.

"The Parsi."—We congratulate the Government as well as the Indian soldier on the wise and statesmanlike decision of the British authorities. With an experienced soldier who commanded the Indian Army and knew it so perfectly, at the head of the War Office, and with a ministry composed of the most liberal-minded statesmen of the day, combined with the expediency and the great necessity of the present situation, the present action of the British authorities in giving his rightful position to the Indian soldier may be taken to be a natural incident in the evolution of cordial relations between Great Britain and India, and it is permissible to hope that this great step forward will be the first of a series of similar marks of confidence and cordiality in the political relation between the two countries. India, efficient and enthusiastic, can prove to be an inexhaustible store of the most virile energy that could be utilized for the maintenance of the British Power and British prestige at the highest level. It is, however, in British hands to secure Indian efficiency and promote Indian enthusiasm to a degree at which they can be utilized with advantage in situations like the one which the world is confronted with in the present crisis, and we have every confidence that the great statesman who guides the destiny of India in this most critical period in her history will not fail to turn the opportunity now presented, to the best advantage.

GOLD FAMINE IN FRANCE.

The difference between English and French currency conditions and habits of mind in monetary matters made strikingly apparent by what happened in Paris on the first apprehension of trouble with Germany. The Paris correspondent of the "Times" telegraphing on the 30th July, gives the following picture of the situation.

"Financially we are already living under war conditions," was the remark made to me by a banker to-day. The truth of this statement has been brought home to everybody in Paris to-day. The dearth of gold in circulation which accompanies every strain in diplomatic relations in France to-day reached the proportion of a famine. At the big shops business is practically suspended owing to the lack of cash. In many of the cafes notices have been posted that no French notes, even for 50f. can be cashed. I myself succeeded to-day in obtaining 20 English sovereigns at a premium of 20f. At my bank I cashed a cheque for £100. and I was only able to obtain silver to the amount of 50f the rest being in notes. While I was waiting an English traveller cashed a five-pound note for which he received only 120f. instead of the normal 126f. Exchange business is completely disorganised and American travellers, who so largely use cheques at a fixed rate of exchange are perhaps the worst sufferers.

At an early hour this morning a crowd of several hundred persons had gathered round the Banque de France anxious to obtain gold, and many of them will probably have to go away unsatisfied to-night owing solely to the physical difficulty of meeting their demands, for it cannot be too definitely stated that the position of the Banque de France is in every way excellent. For the first time its stock of gold amounts to over £160.000.000. The following weekly return of the Banque de France to-day clearly shows its splendid position:—

Gold	£165,633,604
Silver	25,013,304
Securities	97,768,164
Private current accounts	37,902,872
Current Treasury account	13,302,472
Loans on securities	29,750,916
Bank notes in circulation	267,327,388

It is to be noted that the legal Permit of the note issue by the Banque de France, £272,000.000 has nearly been reached and understand that in all probablity to-morrow or the day after the 20 franc and five franc notes which are in readiness in the bank will be issued to the public in order to make business transactions possible. At to-day's meeting the discount rate was advanced from 3½ to 4½ and loans from 4½ to 5½.

All the big banks were thronged throughout the day with depositors withdrawing their money and even their valuables from the strongrooms. On the Bourse business was again at a standstill. Russian funds were not quoted. Italians lost 40 at 91. At the post offices all over Paris, owing to deficient supply of cash, difficulty was experienced in obtaining payment of postal orders.

The financial famine has been accompanied by some slight fear of a food famine. Potin's grocery establishment was filled immediately on opening with a crowd anxious to purchase rice, macaroni and preserved food of all sorts.

FRUIT MERCHANTS AT VARIANCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Beaman.

PADAMJEE ROWJEE, PLAINTIFF, v. BETTONI GORIO AND CO., DEFENDAN2.

The plaintiff was a dealer in fruit and carrried on business in Bombay. The defendants were a firm consisting of two partners, Giacomo Bettoni and Jiavacuum Gorrio, carrying on business as merchants and commission agents in Bombay. By a writing in August, 1911, the plaintiff placed orders with the defendant's firm for, 250 barrels of Malaca grapes, 100 barrels to be shipped in October and 150 in November. All the said barrels were to be shipped by direct steamer either of the P. and S. N. Co., or of the Massageries Maritime Co. The price was fixed at sh. 17/10½ per barrel of 45 lbs.

The plaint alleged that the 100 barrels of the October shipment was duly delivered to the plaintiff in Bombay. The plaintiff waited for the November shipment till 31st December, 1911, and on the 1st of Jan. 1912, he gave notice to the defendants that as the said shipment had not arrived in Bombay until then he would not take delivery thereof and would hold the defendants liable for damages.

The plaintiff learnt that that shipment was not made by a direct steamer as agreed upon between the parties. If it had been it would have arrived in Bombay at the latest on or about the 11th of December 1911. As it was the shipment did not arrive in Bombay until the 2nd of January 1912, and then the grapes had become rotten. The market price of Malaca grapes of the kind ordered out was Rs. 48 per 45 lbs. between the 11th and 31st day of Dec. 1911. The plaintiff alleged that as a result of the breach of contract. On the defendant's part, he had sustained damages to the extent of Rs. 5,226-11-0, being the difference between the contract price and the market price of the goods ordered.

In Dec. 1911 the plaintiff placed another order for, 100 barrels of Malaca grapes at sh. 17/10½ per barrel of 50 lbs. It was provided that the said goods should be shipped in Dec. 1911 by a direct steamer of the Messageries Maritimes Co.

On 15th Jan. 1912, the plaintiff was informed that the goods were not shipped by a direct steamer of the M. M. Co., but that it was shipped by a boat belonging to another Co. and transhipped at Trieste on 17th Jan. The plaintiff wrote to the defendant that he would not take delivery of the said goods and would hold the defendants liable for damages. To this, the defendants replied on the 24th June, 1912, saying that the goods could not be shipped by a direct steamer as the only steamer that came direct from Marseilles to Bombay refused to carry the goods and that the case was one of "force majure."

As a result of this breach the plaintiff alleged that he had suffered damages to the extent of Rs. 3,122-12-0 being the difference between the contract and the market price of the said goods. The grapes arrived in Bombay on the 2nd of Feb., instead of on 2nd Jan. if the condition had been carried out, and when they did arrive the grapes were all rotten. The market price of the grapes ordered out by plaintiff was Rs. 44-6 per 50 lbs. on 7th to 31st Jan. 1912. Negotiations for a settlement were carried on for a short time at the defendant's request but they fell through in Sept. 1912.

The plaintiff claimed Rs. 5,226-11-0 and Rs. 3,112-12 as damages for breach of these two contracts.

The 2nd Jiavacuum Gorrio stated that on a true construction of the indents relating to these transactions the defendants were not the principals and were not liable to be sued. He said that when these indents were signed and the proposal therein referred to accepted by the defendants in Europe both the plaintiffs and defendants were under the mistake that there was direct communication by P and O. or the Massageries Maritime's steamers between Malaga and Bombay whereas there was no such direct communication. He said that the existence of such direct communication was essential to the agreement and therefore the said agreement was void. He also said that the said agreement was impossible of performance and was void on that ground also.

As to the 100 barrels of October shipment delivered to the plaintiff, the defendant alleged that that was also not shipped direct, either by P. & O. and M. M. Co. as direct communication existed. He therefore submitted that there was a waiver by the plaintiff as to the shipment being by P and O. or Massageries and that he could not thereafter insist on shipment direct by either of the said lines.

He denied the plaintiff's statement that had the grapes been shipped by a direct steamer in November, 1911 that the same would have arrived in Bombay on 11th December as alleged, also that the grapes were all rotten and the market price of the grapes and the amount of damages suffered by the plaintiff.

As to the second contract the defendant's case was on the same footing as above. He said that no direct line existed and he desputed the price of grapes and amount of damages as alleged by the plaintiff.

The defendant counterclaimed a sum of Rs. 2.237-15-0 being the deficiency on the sale of the grapes which the plaintiff had refused to take delivery of, and which the defendants had to sell off. Mr. Wadia and Mr. Mulla appeared for the plaintiff.

Mr. Taraporewala and Mr. Desai appeared for the defendant.

His Lordship after stating the facts said that Mr. Raikes who then appeared for the defendants had raised a preliminary point that the case was on all fours with that of Mahomad Ali Pirkhan vs. Scheller Dosogne and Co. in 13 Bom. 470 in which Sir Charles Sargent and Mr. Justice Bailey held on similar documents that the defendant was not liable. His Lordship considered the case at great length and came to the conclusion that the present case was distinguishable from that case. His Lordship further held that on the facts of the case and the subsequent conduct of the defendants the case fell within sec. 230 of the contract, and that the defendants, as agents of the foreign principal, were themselves liable as principal, under that section. His Lordship then discussed the evidence and held that the defendants were liable at the rate of 8 sh. per. barrel of grapes and passed a decree in favour of the plaintiff for Rs. 5,105 with all costs. Counterclaim of the defendant was dismissed with costs.

SUIT BY IMPROVEMENT TRUST.

PROPERTY IN PRINCESS STREET.

(Before Mr. Justice Davar.)

THE TRUSTEES FOR THE IMPROVEMENT OF THE CITY OF BOMBAY v. RATANLAL CHUNILAL PANALAL.

This is a suit filed by the plaintiffs against the defendant, the owner of certain immoveable property situate at the Junction of Kalbadevi Road and Princess Street, claiming that it may be declared that the piece of land on which the defendant had erected a building is the property of and vested in the plaintiffs and further that the defendant be ordered to deliver up forthwith to them the vacant possession of the said piece of land. This suit had been ordered to be heard by his Lordship immediately after the hearing of the suit filed by Ratanlal Chunilal against the Bombay Municipality, was finished. The full facts of the suit filed by Ratanlal Chunilal against the Bombay Municipality appeared in our issue of Monday. The Bombay Municipality asked Ratanlal Chunilal at the time he wanted to rebuild his house on the Kalbadevi Road, to set back and bring the house in the regular line of the street. At the same time the Municipality, under a false belief that a certain piece of land in Princess street belonged to them, asked Ratanlal Chunilal to set forward on the Princess street side. Ratanlal Chunilal did as desired by the Municipality, and as no compensation was given to him by Municipality for their acquisition oc land on the Kalbadevi Road side, filed a suit against the Municipality for compensation for 28.41 sq. yards, at the rate of Rs. 300 or Rs. 200, per square yard, or at the rate which the Court determined. The Municipality contended that they had offered to pay Rs. 300 per square yard as compensation only on condition that Ratanlal paid them at the same rate for the piece of land at Princess Street on which they set forward. The Municipality further contended that there was really an exchange and they were, therefore, not liable to pay any compensation to the plaintiff. (i. e. Ratanlal Chunilal). The hearing of this suit has finished, but his Lordship ordered that this suit and the next suit should be heard together.

The next suit is the present suit filed by the Improvement Trust against Ratanlal Chunilal. The plaintiffs (Improvement Trust) say that by a notice of 17th January, 1905, the plaintiffs intimated to the Bombay Municipality that Lohar Street vested in the Municipality was required by them to form part of Princess street. Thereon the said street became vested in the plaintiffs under section 41 of the City of Bombay Improvement Act 1898. In 1907 one Bhikhibai, mother of the defendant Ratanlal unlawfully took possession of a piece of land formerly part of the said Lohar street and now situate on the south side of Princess street, and thereon built a house. The said piece of land belonged to the plaintiffs, and the plaintiffs submitted that it be declared that the said piece of land was the property of and vested in the plaintiffs and that the defendant might be ordered to deliver up vacant possession of the said piecee of land to them. The defendent in his written statement, denied that Lohar street was the property of and became vested in the plaintiffs. Before erecting a building on the said plot of land, the said Bhikhibai submitted plans of the proposed building to the Municipal Commissioner. The Commissioner disapproved the plans, and asked the defendant to set forward the said building so as to bring it upto the limit of the foot path of Princess Street. The defendant set forward the building according to the Commissioner's instructions. The plaintiffs were fully aware of the set forward and acquiesced in the same and allowed the building to be erected upto the limits of the footpath in Princess Street. The defendant projected some galleries abutting on Princess Street with the permission of the Improvement Trust who charged a small rent for this every year. By reason of this act and conduct of the plaintiffs the defendant contended that they were estopped from making their present claim. The defendant further contended that the suit was not bona fide, and to show that it was not bona fide, the defendant relied on the facts of the case in which the defendant had asked for compensation from the Bombay Municipality. The Municipal Commissioner was bound to pay compensation for all land acquired by the Municipality by reason of the set back, under the city of Bombay Municipal Act, but the defendant contended, that under the same act, the Municipal Commissioner was not entitled to claim compensation from any person in respect of any land on which he required a building to be set forward. The defendant therefore filed the previous suit against the Municipality, and contended that the present suit was filed merely with the object of stifling the just claim of the defendant for compensation for set back made against the Municipality in the previous suit. If the land was ordered to be delivered to the plaintiffs, they should be made to pay the expenses incurred by the defendant in pulling down the building. The defendant also contended that the Municipal Corporation should be ordered to indemnify him for all expenses and losses incurred by him, which loss was due to the false belief of the municipality that the land was theirs. The plaintiffs had also waived their rights by acquiescing in the erection of the building; hence the defendant should not be ordered to give up possession of the land to them. The defendant was ready and willing to buy up the land from the plaintiffs at a reasonable rate.

Mr. Campbell, with the Advocate-General, appeared for the plaintiffs.

The Hon. Mr. Setalvad with Mr. Desai, appeared for the defendant.

The case is proceeding.

ADMIRALTY JURISDICTION.

THE GERMAN SHIPS.

TO BE HANDED OVER TO B. I. M. DIRECTOR.

(Before Mr. Justice Macleod.)

THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA v. THE GERMAN STEAMSHIP WARTUM AND CARGO.

This was the return of the Monition issued by his Lordship as Prize Court in reference to the ship wartum.

The Acting Advocate-General Mr. Jardine and Mr. Nicholson appeared for the Crown.

Mr. Jardine applied, on affidavits, on the standing interrogates administered and on the strength of the ship's papers that his Lordship should hold the ship to be a vessel of the enemy and adjudicate it accordingly. He stated that the Crown could at this stage ask, under the Act, that the ship be condemned as a prize of war. However, a certain convention had been agreed upon between the German and British Governments before the outbreak of the war, which made it very material to ascertain whether the ship knew of the declaration of war before it entered the port of Bombay. The Crown would adhere to its obligation under the convention if the enemy adhered to it. At that stage he would, therefore, ask that the question of condemnation be ordered to stand over and that the ship be ordered to be detained and to be handed over to the Director of the Royal Indian Marine upon his requisition.

His Lordship made the order asked for.

Mr. Jardine then applied for a general order of detention of the cargo.

Mr. Setalvad then applied on behalf of a claimant firm, Adamji Bhaiji, for an order of delivery to them of 100 lbs. of Hydrosulphide which formed part of the cargo of s.s. Wartum. The goods had been imported through Badishe & Co.; the moneys were to be paid on delivery. They were ready to pay. They were in a position to prove that the goods became their property immediately they were shipped.

His Lordship inquired why the Crown should object to give delivery in such cases. That would be penalizing British subjects. The Crown ought to give up even goods indented by German firms. It could retain the moneys paid for such goods.

Mr. Jardine stated that the Crown would be ready to do that.

His Lordship passed an order for delivery of goods on payment.

Mr. Setalvad then applied on behalf of the Badische Co. for an order of delivery to them of certain goods consigned to them per the s.s. Wartum. He stated that the company was a company registered in British India. The claimant before the court was the company, an entity entirely different from its shareholders. It would not matter in the least who the shareholders were or whether they were Germans.

Mr. Jardine stated that they were quite willing to treat the company as a company domiciled in British India. If the money for the goods had not been paid they would not allow it to go to the enemy.

Mr. Setalvad stated that they undertook not to remit moneys for the goods if they had not been paid.

His Lordship passed an order for delivery of the goods to the Company on payment of the invoice value into the Bank of Bombay to a separate account. Liberty to apply was reserved.

Mr. Binning then made similar applications on behalf of Schroder Schmidt & Co. and Farben Fabrikenn & Co. He contended that it was sufficient if the company was registered in India. It did not matter who its officers or shareholders were. They were entitled straightway to a delivery of the goods without any payment whatever.

His Lordship passed similar orders as in the case of the claim of Badische Co.

Mr. Jardine then applied for an order in the case of s.s. Rheinfels similar to that passed in the case of s.s. Wartum.

His Lordship made the order asked for.

MR. DADABHOY NAOROJI.

GUJRATI LADIES PRESENT AN ADDRESS

Mr. Dadabhoy Naoroji, the Grand Old Man of India, celebrated his 90th birthday yesterday. As usual a deputation of Gujrati ladies presented a congratulatory Address to him at his bungalow, The Sands, Versova. The President of the Gujrati Stri Mandal, Mrs. Jamnabai Sakai, was absent is she is mourning the death of her husband. The deputation was received by Dr. Mrs. H. M. Dadina, Mr. Dadabhoy's daughter, and after the formalities had been gone through and a song specially composed for the occasion sung, the Address was read by the Vice-President of the Mandal. In it, reference was made to the services rendered by Mr. Dadabhoy to the cause of female education, which was steadily progressing, to the new activities the mandal had lately undertaken, and to the philanthropic activies of the late Lady Hardinge and of Lady Willingdon, who, the Address said, was doing her utmost to ameliorate the lot of the women of this Presidency.

Mr. Dadabhoy thanked the deputation for their kindness, and said that his reply would be read by his daughter, Mrs. Dadina.

Mrs. Dadina then read the reply which ran as follows:—

MR. DADABHOY'S REPLY.

Dear Sisters, I rejoice to see you all here. The very presence of a deputation of Gujrati ladies gives me great satisfaction. I am much pleased to see you all mixing so freely with ladies of other communities. These are good signs of the times. They unmistakeably show the slow but steady progress which the cause of female education has made amongst you. I regret very much the absence of your good President, Mrs. Jamnabai N. Sakai, to-day. I fully realise the nature of the loss which she and your Mandal has sustained by the death of her husband. Continue to keep up your activities; they will amply console Mrs. Sakai. I note with pleasure the mention you have made of the new activities which your Mandal has lately undertaken. You speak of the difficulties in your way. Knowing well how rich the Gujrati community is, I have no doubt that you will be well supported, and particularly so when your Mandal has been doing such good work for the last ten years. I quite agree with you about the philauthropic activities of the late Lady Hardinge. Her memory, I have no doubt, will long be cherished amongst us. I note with pleasure the mention you make of her Excellency Lady Willingdon's beneficient activities, and I am sure she will greatly help the cause of female enlightenment. I am glad to learn that you have made a beginning to help our good Government, I am sure if you will work well you will be able to contribute your worthy share to the labour of love so nobly undertaken by her Excellency, Lady Willingdon. The kind things you have said about me in general, and the special reference you have been good enough to make about my late wife and mother, have touched me. I wish all success to the Gujrati Hindu Stri Mandal. May your Mandal succeed in getting all the encouragement which it so richly deserves from the generous public of Bombay is my earnest desire. I thank you all very heartily for your kind Address of congratulations on my 90th birthday, and for all the trouble you have been taking for its celebration.

The party then adjourned for refreshments, after which they left.

The Mandal, will hold a special meeting this afternoon to celebrate the birthday.

A public meeting to celebrate the ninetieth birthday of Mr. Dadabhai Naorojee, will be held under the auspices of the Bombay National Union at Hirabag, near C. P. Tank, this evening at 5-45 p.m. (B.T. All are cordially requested to be present.

WORN-OUT AND RUN DOWN

That's what many of us often find ourselves and are so often unable to find the cause. We grow fagged out over the ordinary day's work, listless and lifeless without any reason devoid of energy or ambition nights are passed sleeplessly. The appetite grows poor, we have no desire for work or even pleasure. Then come troubles of the nerves, the head, the stomach, the liver, bowels, blood, in fact the system is undermined. This wrecking at the system is appalling—but we are all liable to it any time just the same. Blood and nerve diseases are silent and insidious, they come without warning and do deadly work almost unnoticed. At the very first sign of the smallest symptom of such troubles, use that KING OF ALL REMEDIES.

A tyre discovery

IN the Dunlop rubber-studded motor-cycle tyre the Dunlop way of always trying to do better than before has produced an extraordinarily fine thing.

Its bold design at once takes the eye of the expert. Look at the big strong studs. Look at the thickness of the rubber in the tread. Everyone knows how Dunlop tyres have stood up to their work in the big races and trials, and that they have been used by scores of successful riders. These achievements justify the reasons on which the design is founded.

But what may well be called a tyre discovery is the mixing which governs the exact composition of the covers of Dunlop motor-cycle tyres, and which is giving wonderful results with regard to wear-resisting qualities.

In normal circumstances the rate at which rubber is lost by Dunlop tyres by wear is extraordinarily low. As tyre economy is a matter of mileage price, not initial price, see that you have

GERMAN "SPIES" IN ENGLAND.

NUMEROUS ARRESTS.

An immediate consequence of the outbreak of war between Britain and Germany was the arrest of a number of alleged German spies in England. Twenty-one spies or suspected spies, it was announced by Mr. McKenna in the House of Commons on the 5th August, were arrested in the course of 24 hours, chiefly at naval and military centres.

Many houses in London occupied by Germans were raided by the police on the 4th August, and as a result four men were charged at Bow-street on the 5th August with espionage. Two men were arrested in the afternoon on the railway line between Cannon Street and London Bridge. They were handed over to the police and taken to Cloak-line Police Station.

Between three and five o'clock on the afternoon of the 5th August Scotland Yard officers made several more arrests of Germans in London who are suspected of espionage. Most of them are of good social position, one being a German baron. Some of the motor-cars belonging to the suspects have been taken over by the police.

The Portsmouth police made a raid on the 5th August, and arrested three Germans who are suspected of espionage. Suspected of espionage a man was taken into custody near the Oversea Cable House, Newbiggin, Northumberland, but was afterwards liberated. A supposed German spy with a camera was arrested at Dover, and at Penarth, near Cardiff. William Fowler, a hair-dresser, was taken into custody on a charge of obtaining and selling information to Germany.

AN EX-GERMAN OFFICER.

Four cases were heared at Bow-Streea on the 5th August by Mr. Graham Campbell. The man charged were:—

Karl Gustav Ernst, a hair-dresser, and a British subject, living in Caledonian-Road.

August Klunder, a German subject, described as a hair-dresser, of Commercial-street, Whitechapel.

Friederich Diedericks, a German subject, described as a naval pensioner; and Adolph Schneider, 25 a German subject, described as a book-keeper, of Thurlow Parkroad, West Dulwich.

The charge against each prisoner, which was preferred under the Official Secrets Act, was that of being a person who, for any purpose prejudicial to the safety or interests of the State, obtained certain documents or information calculated to be, or which might be intended to be directly or indirectly useful to an enemy.

A BARBER'S SHOP RAIDED.

The case of Ernst was taken first.

Chief Detective-Inspector Ward stated that on Tuesday evening on the 4th August he went, with Detective-inspectors Hester and Mercer, to a barber's shop in Caledonian-road. He there saw the accused, and told him he would be arrested and charged under the Official Secrets Act. He replied: "I know nothing about it."

The witness searched the whole of the house and shop and took possession of a quantity of memoranda. He then took the accused to Bow-street Police Station, where, when he was charged, he said: "It is a ridiculous charge."

The accused was remanded.

In reply to the magistrate, the witness said he had not yet had time to examine the memoranda, much of which was in German.

The accused: May I have bail?

The Magistrate: No bail.

Klunder was then charged.

"ALMOST COLLAPSED."

Chief Detective Inspector Gough, of Scotland Yard, stated that on the previous evening he went with Chief Inspector Wensley and other officers to 17, Commercial Street, Spitalfields. He found the accused there, and told him he would be arrested on a charge of espionage. He took the man to the top floor of the house, and read the formal charge to him. Klunder became very faint, and almost collapsd. When he had recovered, the witness said to him, "The charge means that you are accused of being a spy." He made no answer.

The witness and the other officers searched the premises, and took possession of papers and other articles. At the police station the accused made a statement. It was taken down in writing, and he signed it.

The Clerk: Do you produce it?

The Witness: No, sir, not at present.

Klunder was remanded.

EX-OFFICER IN GERMAN NAVY.

In the case against Diedericks Detective Inspector Helden, of Scotland Yard, said that, with Detective Sergeant Eveleigh and Detective Coles, he saw the accused at Kenilworth Hotel, Great Russell-street on Tuesday, the 4th August and told him he would be arrested for offences against the Official Secrets Act. The accused said: "I have done nothing; I am not an officer now". The witness asked, "Of what were you an officer?" He replied: "I was a commander in the German navy, but I am now pensioned."

The witness searched the accused's room, and found two bags containing memoranda and other property.

The accused, through an interpreter, said his proper name was Friederich von Diederich. He was remanded in custody.

"HAD TO SEND FOR A DOCTOR."

Giving evidence against Schneider, Detective-Inspector Burch stated that on Tuesday, the 4th August, with Detective Gimlet and other officers, he found the accused at his home in Thurlow Park-road, West Dulwich, and told him he would be arrested under the Official Secrets Act. He immediately collapsed, and witness had to send for a doctor. When he was able to speak, he said: "I cannot understand it."

The witness searched a room occupied by the accused and took possession of a quantity of memoranda and correspondence.

The Magistrate: Do you want to ask the witness any questions?

The Accused: No; I don't understand it. I have done nothing.

He was remanded.

A gentleman asked the Magistrate to grant bail. He had, he said, been in close contract with the accused for four years, and was confident that this was a practical joke. He thought he knew who was carrying it out.

The Magistrate: No; I cannot grant bail.

MAN WITH A CAMERA.

Franz Heinrich Losel, a photographer, of German nationality, was charged at Sheerness on the 5th August. He was arrested by the military with a camera in his possession on a wall facing Sheerness Harbour, in which there were warships. The Court adjourned for the development of the plates The accused told the sentries that there was nothing on the plates.

This statement was found to be correct. Dosel was released on his own bail till the following Saturday.

SOLDIERS ON SENTRY

DETAILS OF DUTIES.

THE SENTRY-GO.

With the risk of a great war before us, the War Office authorities have taken the precaution to set special guards over many military depots of warlike material, writes Mr. Horace Wyndham in "The Graphic." As a rule, the only sentry that the Londoner sees is at the Royal palaces and at the Horse Guards. At the present moment the Irish Guards are supplying the guard at Buckingham Palace. In this article Mr. Horace Wyndham, who knows a great deal about the life of a soldier, describes the duties of sentries.

Guard-duty plays a large and important part in the work of the British soldier. At every garrison throughout the world hundreds of sentries may be seen marching up and down a measured beat, and anyone who comes too near them (especially after nightfall) is apt to be challenged. Such guards are not entirely ornamental. They exist for a definite purpose, although in many cases this purpose might be equally well served by a less pronounced exhibition of armed force.

Military guards are of two kinds—"garrison" and "regimental." Of these, the "garrison" guards are considered the more important. They are mounted over Royal palaces, and Government buildings, such as arsenals, magazines, forts, prisons, and dockyards, etc. In London and Dublin a military guard is also on duty at the Bank of England and the Bank of Ireland; and at all stations abroad there is also one for the official residence of the Governor.

"Regimental" guards are much fewer in number, as they are merely employed to look after property in barracks. For this purpose a single guard of from six to nine men is usually found sufficient. It is mounted at the barrack gate, and posts sentries where required.

The composition of a guard is governed by the number of posts to be protected, each of which requires three sentries. Thus, if there are four posts, there must be twelve privates to look after them. Occasionally a guard is commanded by an officer. As a general rule, however, there is a sergeant in charge, with a corporal or lance-corporal to assist him. Very often a bugler joins the retinue as well. Such a person has a comparatively easy time of it, since he has nothing to do but to sound reveille, retreat, and tattoo, and while his comrades are on sentry he can slumber uninterruptedly.

"GARRISON" GUARDS.

In London the only "garrison" guards are at Buckingham Palace, St. James's Palace, Whitehall, the Powder Magazine in Hyde Park, and the Bank of England, in the City. The Bank guard is an exception to the general rule, since it mounts at night instead of in the morning. At one time the men composing it received an extra payment from the Bank funds, while the officer in command was allowed a guinea. The practice, however, has now been abolished. Still, the officer is given a dinner (to which he has the privilege of asking two friends) at the expense of the Governors. In wet weather this guard can travel by train, if the officer likes to pay for the fares. If not, it has to tramp along the Embankment.

The daily guard-mounting at St. James's Palace (or Buckingham Palace, when the King is in residence) is carried out with much ceremony, and always attracts a considerable number of the public. On the arrival of the relieving guard, it halts opposite the old one. The colours are then saluted, and the two guards "present arms" to each other. While the sentries are being posted, the band plays a selection, preparatory to conducting the old guard back to barracks. For the officers' there is a well-appointed mess-room at St. James's Palace, towards the maintenance of which the Government contributes no less than £4,000 a year.

INSPECTION OF GUARDS.

Before marching off the parade-ground to commence its duties a guard is closely inspected by the adjutant or orderly officer. A high standard of cleanliness is insisted upon, and everything has to be even more spic-and-span than usual. Belts must be pipe-clayed, uniforms brushed, and buttons polished with special care. To turn out properly for guard is no simple matter. It means at least a couple of hours' work.

The routine of guard-duty is, as a rule, uneventful enough. Directly the guard arrives at its destination the commander examines the property entrusted him, and signs a certificate to the effect that he has "taken over" in good order. He then relieves the old sentries with fresh ones. When the former return to the guard-room they join their comrades, the old guard march back to barracks, and the new guard settle down in their quarters for the next twenty-four hours. During this period each private does eight hours sentry-go, divided into four spells of two hours each.

In every sentry-box there is an "order board," on which are set forth the special instructions for the post. These have to be learned by the sentry, and he must repeat them to the man who relieves him. After a certain hour of the night all persons approaching a post are challenged, and on some garrison guards a countersign is demanded. This is supplied by a staff officer, and is changed every day. The formula for challenging is "Halt, who comes there?" "Friend." "Stand, friend, advance one, and give the countersign." Then, when this is given, the sentry replies, "Pass, friend, all's well." If the countersign is not given correctly, the visitor will probably be detained at the point of the bayonet until the commander of the guard appears on the scene.

Sentry-go is unpopular. This is not because it is fatiguing so much as it is uninteresting. There is very little, especially after nightfall, to break the monotony of walking up and down a measured beat. A visit from an officer or patrol is welcome.

Under no circumstances may a sentry leave his post. If he has anything to report he communicates with the next sentry, who passes the word to the guard. In some places sentries are required to show that they are alert and vigilant by shouting "All's well!" every half-hour from 10 p.m., the cry being repeated by every man in succession.

Although a sentry-box is far from comfortable, a man often finds it difficult to keep awake in the middle of the night. Should a sentry be found asleep on his post he is liable to serve punishment; and if the offence be committed during active service a court-martial may order him to be shot.

All guard-rooms are built and fitted up in much the same fashion. The premises consist of one large room, with a low sloping shelf, about six feet deep, fixed against the entire length of one wall. This forms the "bed," on which sentries are permitted to rest at night during the intervals of duty. As the "bed" (alleged) is very hard, and no mattresses are allowed, the occupants do not have much difficulty in keeping awake. There are also a couple of tables for the men, and a smaller one for the sergeant. In front of the fire there is probably a cat. Puss, however, is private and not Government property.

THE GUARD-ROOM.

Opening off the guard-room itself is the "detention-room," where offenders against discipline are confined for temporary custody. It is not a cheerful apartment, and contains nothing but a plank bed. The windows are small and heavily barred, and the door is always kept locked and the key in the sergeant's pocket. Sometimes there may also be a few cells for the benefit of drunken prisoners, as such men are not allowed to mix with their sober comrades.

The commander of a guard is kept fairly busy. He does not perform sentry-go himself, but every two hours he has to inspect and post a fresh relief, and twice by day and twice by night he has to visit the posts personally, to assure himself that all is well with them. Should prisoners be brought to him he is responsible for their custody. If he happens to be on "quarter guard," that is a guard mounted at the barrack gate, he must see that nobody enters or leaves who is not entitled to do so. Perhaps the busiest period is the one from 10 p.m. to reveille, between which hours he has to check the names of absentees and men returning to barracks off pass.

The monotony of guard-duty is broken in a number of ways. At all hours of the day or night the nearest sentry may give the warning, "Guard, turn out!" Instantly, everybody springs up and falls in outside the door, and waits there until dismissed. The warning may, perhaps, be occasioned by the approach of an armed party, such as a battalion going to or returning from drill. Such a body is entitled to the compliment of a salute from the guard, as is also a funeral procession. Then, at irregular intervals by day and night, the guard receives a visit of inspection from an officer, who has to satisfy himself that everything is in order.

THE TRANS-SIBERIAN RAILWAY.

GROWTH OF TRAFFIC.

Some interesting information regarding the growth of the traffic on the Trans-Siberian railway is given by a correspondent of the "Times."

The rapid increase in the traffic over the Trans-Siberian system to the Far East is to be directly attributed (he says) to the improvement in the facilities offered. At the present time it is possible for a passenger to leave London on a Sunday and arrive at Shanghai via the Russian railway system in 14 days, against 35 days when making the journey via. Suez; and when the railway improvements, which have now been sanctioned by the Russian Government, are completed, the time of the journey to Peking will be reduced by two days, and the journey will then take 11 days only. This is being accomplished by the increased mileage of double tracks on the route, by the provision of new bridges, and other permanent-way work. It is estimated that the total cost of the double tracking of the 2,150 miles of the Trans-Siberian route will amount to about £13,000,000. The expenditure ought to be justified by the traffic; it cannot be too strongly emphasized that whereas Russian railway enterprise in Asia was formerly connected with plans for territorial expansion and offensive stategy both in the Middle and the Far East, it is now based upon ordinary commercial considerations of Imperial defence and the peaceful development of these vast territories.

THROUGH BOOKINGS.

It was the policy of arranging through bookings with the English railways which has stimulated the use of the route by the travelling public. The question of arranging tickets to the Far East was first discussed in 1905, but it was not until 1908 that a system was brought into operation under which passengers could take tickets and register luggage through to certain towns in the Far East, the principal places being Vladivostok, Nagasaki, Tsurouga, Shanghai, and Harbin. The Russo-Japanese War interrupted the extension of these facilities, but when the normal working of the railways was resumed, conferences between the administrations of railways and steamship lines concerned were again held with the result that the State railways of Japan and Korea have been brought into the arrangement, and last year the Chinese railways (Peking and Mukden line) agreed to the issue of tickets and the registration of luggage to Peking and Tientsin.

Passengers from England can travel by various routes. To take only one example, they can begin their journey by using the excellent daily services to Moscow via Harwich and the Hook of Holland, leaving Liverpool-street at 8-30 p.m. on Sunday evening, and arriving in Shanghai via Siberia on the Saturday week, that is, 14 days. It may be pointed out that the distance from the Hook of Holland to Alexandrowo is the shortest from any Channel port. The journey through Russia and over the Trains-Siberian route can be made either in the Russian trains or by the services of the Sleeping Car Company. The Trans-Siberian trains of the Sleeping Car Company are composed of first and second class cars. The first-class compartments contain two sleeping berths, also table, chair, special reading lamp, and ample hook and rack accommodation for hand baggage. In the second class of the sleeping Car Company's trains there are a limited number of two-berth compartments, the remainder containing four berths each. There are no two-berth second-class compartments on the Russian State or Chinese Eastern Company's trains. The cars are supplied with electric light, and heated during the winter. The personnel of the trains generally speak four languages—Russian German, English, and French. On the Chinese portion of the journey the attendants speak Chinese and Russian. The latest telegraphic news is posted in the restaurant car.

SIX THOUSAND MILES OF RAILWAY.

Until these services were instituted the Trans-Siberian route was but little known. It was in the year 1903 that the through traffic facilities were first provided. At Manchuria, the first station in Manchuria, the Chinese Eastern Railway begins, and as the railway was built on the five foot gauge, and is operated by the Russian Government no change is necessary, after once starting on the Russian railways, until Vladivostok is reached, a distance of 1,604 versts. The distance traversed from St. Petersburg to Vladivostok is therefore 8,387 vests or 5,560 miles. As Alexandrowo is 1,472 kilometres (915 miles) from Ostend, the total distance from Ostend to Vladivostok is 6,475 miles. or from London to Vladivostok 6,611 miles. By the route via St. Petersburg, Moscow, Samara, and Irkutsk it is 5,900 miles from St. Petersburg to Vladivostok, but by the northern route via Viatka the distance is reduced to the figure above mentioned. The last rail of this great enterprise was laid on the 3rd November, 1901, but the line was not opened for permanent regular traffic until two years later.

NEW TRAINS AND FACILTIES.

In addition to the through bookings via Siberia, a passenger can now take a round trip ticket from London to Shanghai by way of the Trans-Siberian Railways, and return from Shanghai to London available by any passenger steamer via the Suez Canal, the tickets being available for two years. This means that a passenger can now take a round trip ticket and register his luggage to Shanghai with no more trouble than he would have in booking and registering luggage to Amsterdam.

Further round the world facilities are under consideration, and a conference was to be held with that purpose in September. but these questions are now doubtless held up until the returns of peace and normal conditions.

PNEUMOSAN.

(Amylthiotrimethylamine)

Has stood the test of time and is now extensively used in Great Britain and her Colonies in all types of tuberculosis. It gives far better results than any other treatment specially in Pulmonary, and Glandular Tuberculosis, Tuberculous Joints, Tuberculous Peritonitis and Enteritis, Lupus Vulgaris and mixed infections. Not seldom acute cases too respond to its action. It may be employed with perfect safety since it does not cause any irritation locally or constitutionally.

Dr. John Penn Milton, late Medical Partner to Dr. Otto Walther of Nordrach, Black Forest, Germany, and the Medical Superintendent of the Devon and Cornwall Sanatorium for Consumptives, has favoured with the following observations:-

"Some hundreds of cases have been treated so far. The instructive and interesting point about them is the short time that they were under Treatment and that they were able to return to their various business on leaving the Sanitorium. I am getting better results since using PNEUMOSAN than ever before. I would point out that cases in the first and second stages respond best to PNEUMOSAN although I have had good results in more advanced cases, but these results are not to general or so certain. One is Morally bound to take Notice of a preparation like PNEUMOSAN when the Patients all ask for it because they say they feel so much better from its administration and when sees the Improvement in appetite, Temperature, couch and general well being in nearly every case."

PNEUMOSAN is issued in bottles containing 20 to 30 Injections. PRICE Rs. 13-0 PER BOTTLE.

PNEUMOSAN can be obtained from all the leading Chemists throughout India, Burma and Ceylon or direct from:
